Blanche:

Wilcox American, May 1981 [has picture]

Mrs. Alford moves to Florida

"It's been a good life and I've loved every minute of it," Mrs. Blanche Alford describes her years as a resident of Camden.

These years numbering almost 60, have rendered a great many changes in the town. From dusty gravel roads to paved streets; from kerosene lamps to electricity and its related conveniences, just to name two.

Miss Blanche has seen its population grow as industry came, but she comments, the people mostly stayed the same; friendly, warm and community minded.

This Friday, May 15, this stately lady, bids farewell to her many friends and home town of more than half century, to begin a new phase of her life in Traveres, Fl., where she will make her home with her sister, Mrs. T.L. McCollum.

Miss Blanche Laye came to Camden in September 1921, as teacher at Wilcox County High School. Her subjects were history and some math classes. Also, she coached the Girls basketball team and was with the girls that year, when they played their first indoor game, which was against a Selma team.

Teaching only occupied that first year, however, as she married the late Mr. Walter Alford, who served as Mayor of Camden for several terms, on April 12, 1922.

They moved into their Clifton Street home, where Miss Blanche continues to live.

During her years in Camden, she has been an active member of numerous civic organizations, and clubs as well as in her church, the First Presbyterian Church.

She also was appointed and served on the County Jury Commission under Gov. Frank Dixon was one of the organizers of the USO organization here.

[unknown printed source]

Julius Eugene Alford, judge of the inferior criminal court of Mobile, enjoys the distinction of being the youngest judge in Alabama, and at the time of his first appointment was no doubt the youngest incumbent of such an office in the United States. His father, William T. Alford, was a native of South Carolina, and one of the earliest settlers of Wilcox County, Ala., where he has followed agricultural pursuits all his life. He married Eliza E. Primm. Their son, Julius E. Alford, was born at Canton Bend, Wilcox County, Ala., Jan. 21, 1872. For a while he attended the public schools of Camden, and then took a business course at the University of Kentucky, where he graduated in 1891. His next enterprise was the organization of the Thomasville, Ala., bank, of which he was cashier during the year 1895. In 1896 he removed to Mobile and engaged in the retail grocery business for a year. In 1897 he accepted a position as clerk of the recorder's court of Mobile County, which he held until March, 1899. At this time he was appointed, by Governor Johnston, judge of the new inferior court, and at the general election in 1900 he was elected as his own successor over two prominent opposing candidates. All admit that Judge Alford has made a conservative as well as an energetic official. He is an ardent Democrat, and may be found at the front among his party's workers in every campaign, whether local, State, or national. He is a member of the first district executive committee for Mobile county, and is trusted as one of the wise counselors as well as active organizers when important work is to be done. He is a member of the Presbyterian church and of the Woodmen of the World. Nov. 21, 1894, Judge Alford was married to Nellie, daughter of Thomas and Nancy J. Duggan, both deceased. Her father was a wholesale grocer of Mobile, and a man of great prominence in the business world. Judge and Mrs. Alford have an only son, Eugene Vernon. The parents of Mrs. Alford were very early immigrants into Alabama.

Alford Club Organized

Friends Will Take Care of Judge's Campaign While He Stumps State

Taking the announcement of Judge Jules E. Alford that he had accepted an invitation to stump the state for Emmet O'Neal and would leave his own campaign for solicitor of Mobile County in the hands of friends as their cue, those friends to the number of 200 assembled in the inferior court room last night and organized an Alford Club. Its purpose will be to advance the cause of the man whose name it bears and encourage his friends to see that his campaign is not neglected because of his absence.

At the outset of the meeting Judge Alford addressed his friends and thanked them for their efforts in his behalf to inaugurate an organization to aid him in his campaign while he was away from the city.

James H. Webb was elected temporary chairman and in a few words opened the meeting for further business. Nominations were in order for permanent officers and the following gentlemen was elected: Hon. Francis J. Inge, chairman; Sidney Prince, first vice chairman; Robert E. Gordon, second vice chairman; Bart B. Chamberlain, secretary. A motion prevailed that the chair appoint an executive committee composed of five to formulate an organization in each city ward and county precinct and the chair determined to appoint the committee at his leisure.

Leon McCord, a candidate for railroad commissioner, was introduced. He took the crowd at the outset of his remarks by stating that Governor Comer was with him, also Colonel A.S. Lyons, and the gathering smiled as the "Safe and Sane" leader was referred to the Governor. In well-chosen words he pictured the coming day, near at hand, when Mobile as a city and Alabama as a state will again come into her own, when the clouds of fanaticism would drift away in the distant political horizon, leaving the sunlight of liberal government and peace as a lasting monument to Democracy's triumphs.
